

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

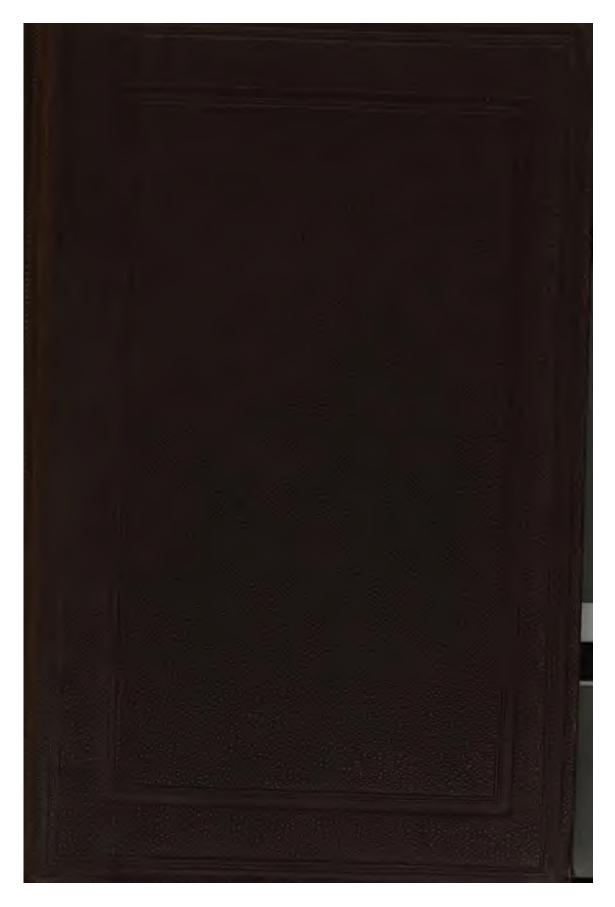

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

BOOKS WRITTEN BY MEMBERS OF THE SOCIETY OF FRIENDS, COMMONLY CALLED QUAKERS,

FROM THEIR FIRST RISE TO THE PRESENT TIME;

INTERSPERSED WITH CRITICAL REMARKS,

AND

OCCASIONAL BIOGRAPHICAL NOTICES,

AND INCLUDING

ALL WRITINGS BY AUTHORS BEFORE JOINING AND BY THOSE

H. D. & B. HEADLEY, INVICTA PRINTING WORKS.

ARRANGEMENT, &c.

First, the Authors' Surnames are carried on Alphabetically and the places of their Birth or Residence as far as known.

Then the Titles of the Books, and the number of editions printed, as near as can be ascertained, in chronological order, then the size and date and number of sheets,—and lastly, the time and place of the death of the deceased Authors, if known.

Some are set down twice for the more ready finding them, as some that have two Authors under both their names, and some not only under the Authors' names, but also under the title of King and Parliament, Sufferings, and Testimonies of, and concerning Friends deceased, because they fall properly under those heads.

And such as have no Authors' names may be found under "Anonymous, or Nameless, Friends, Quakers," &c., &c.

Periodical Publications may be found under that head.

At the end of those Pieces by Authors whose works have been collected, the page is given where they may be found; where that is omitted it must be understood that such Tract or Piece is not in their collected works.

EXPLANATION OF SIGNS USED IN THIS CATALOGUE.

- to indicate those individuals who at some time were disunited from the Society, and not known to have returned.
- † ,, those who condemned their error, and were restored into unity with their friends.
- those who were disunited, and returned, but believed to have again backslided.
- those individuals about whom there is some uncertainty as to whether they left the Society or not.
- those Authors about whom there is some doubt as to whether they ever belonged to the Society, and those Anonymous Books with the same mark must be considered doubtful, i.e. whether written by Members or not.
- mark, as it was not his catalogue. Those written by individuals before joining, and those by Authors after having left the Society, have no such mark, as it was not his intention to include such books.
- B ,, that the article was printed on the Broadside of a sheet. If the date is known of a Book without any, it is enclosed in Crochets.

Many of the Books and Tracts enumerated in this Catalogue may be obtained on application to the Publisher.

BARCLAY (Captain Robert)—Who performed on Newmarket Health the most remarkable feat ever recorded in the annals of Pedestrianism; having walked one Thousand Miles in one Thousand successive hours at the rate of one Mile in each hour. This extraordinary performance commenced on Wednesday, May 31st, 1809, at 12 at Night, Captain Barclay walked half-a-mile out from the Horse and Jockey across the Norwich road up the Heath, and returned. He completed the distance on Wednesday, July 12th, at 37 minutes past 3 in the afternoon, in the presence of Ten Thousand spectators. ——Incidents in the Life of JACOB BARKER, of New Orleans, Louisiana. With Historical Facts, his Financial Transactions with the Government, and his Course on Important Political Questions, from 1800 to 1855. With Portraits of JACOB BARKER and JOHN WELLS. Washington 8vo. 1855.

*BARNARD, Sir John, a patriotic Citizen, and distinguished Alderman of Dowgate Ward, London, being appointed in 1727, was born at Reading in Berkshire, in 1685, of Quaker parents, being educated at Wandsworth School; but in his 19th year he quitted the Society of Friends, and became a member of the Established Church, and was baptised at Fulham by Bishop Compton. In 1721, on account of his reputation and abilities, he was nominated to represent the City of London in Parliament, and notwithstanding the contest was as warm as ever had been known in the city, and he declined all personal solicitation, he was, by the exertion of his friends, returned in 1722. He continued to represent the city in the most independent manner for 40 years; during which time he acquired considerable influence by his vigorous opposition to the measures of administration, then conducted by Sir Robert Walpole, and particularly by his opposition to the extension of the excise, which he induced the minister to abandon. In 1732, he was knighted on presenting a congratulatory address to Geo. II., and in 1738 he was invested with the high dignity of Chief Magistrate of the City of London, the duties of which he discharged with credit to himself and advantage to the public. In 1746 he was solicited by Geo. II., to accept the office of Chancellor of the Exchequer, which he refused. Mr. Pitt, afterwards Lord Chatham, used sometimes to call him the great commoner; and Pope, obliquely sarcastic, exhibits him in contrast with worthless wealth and title, which would arrogate that respect which is only due to such men as Barnard:—

Barnard in spirit, sense, and truth abounds; Pray, then, what wants he? four score thousand pounds. He died at Clapham in 1764, leaving one son and two daughters.

Or, Birch, who died of a fall from his horse between London and Hampstead, January 9th, 1766, at sixty-one, was a pioneer of literature. Dr. Johnson was repeatedly obliged to him for literary information, and bestowed on him a great epigram, but is said to have satirically observed, "Tom Birch is as brisk as a bee in conversation, but no sooner does he take a pen in his hand than it becomes a torpedo to him, and benumbs all his faculties." His General Dictionary, including a new translation of M. Bayle, was interspersed with several thousand new lives, and completed in ten volumes (folio).

*BIRKBECK, George.—Continued from Catalogue, Vol. I., p.273.

-Mathematics practically applied to the Useful and Fine Arts. By Baron Charles Dupin, Member of the Institute; of the Academy of Sciences, &c., &c. Adapted to the state of the Arts in England. By George Birkbeck, Esq., M.D., President of the London Mechanics' Institution, &c., &c.

This work is in the course of being published in Numbers, price One Shilling each, on the 15th and last days of each month. Two Numbers, to be had at the end of the Month, will constitute a Part, price Two Shillings. Each Number contains thirty-two pages of letter-press, and two large folding plates, engraved in the best manner by Turrell. The work will be completed in Ten Numbers, or Five Parts, and will form a very handsome octavo volume.

The original work forms three volumes; and if this, containing the first course of Lectures, be favourably received by the public, it will be immediately followed by the second and third volumes. Volume the second will contain a complete series of Lectures descriptive of the principal MACHINES EMPLOYED IN THE ARTS; and the third will contain a full account of the different motive powers, such as THE STRENGTH OF MEN and ANIMALS, THE FORCE OF WIND, STEAM, AND WATER. The whole will form the only complete Course of Mathematics applied to the Arts yet given to the public. Each volume, treating a distinct branch of the subject, will form a perfect work, and will be sold separately.

ADDRESS.

It has been long and justly regretted, that a treatise, exhibiting clearly and comprehensively the connexion of Science with the Arts, has never been placed in the hands of the public. Of such a work, however, an admirable specimen has at length been furnished by the celebrated Baron Dupin; and as its execution is in every respect commensurate with the importance of the subject, it must prove, I am persuaded, a valuable acquisition to the British student.

It may not be improper here to state, that, for several years, this learned and scientific inquirer has been engaged in travelling through the most cultivated and enlightened parts of Europe, and especially of Great Britain; surveying with the greatest assiduity, attention, and intelligence, the actual condition of the arts, manufactures, and commerce; and everywhere exploring, by means of a most powerful mind, the nature and operation of the various processes and machines by which they are conducted, from the most simple to the most complicated. Amongst the objects by which, during his last excursion through this empire, he seems to have been most powerfully impressed, were the establishments recently formed for the scientific education of the working classes; and the effect of that impression was the immediate introduction of a similar measure, with the concurrence of the Government of France, amongst the artisans and masters of manufactories in Paris, by means of courses of popular and truly practical lectures, delivered in the Conservatoire des Arts et Metiers. Having farther succeeded in establishing more than thirty schools of a similar kind in the provinces, Baron Dupin proceeded to publish, for their use and that of the working classes at large, the Lectures on Geometry, the first of the courses which he had thus delivered. Speaking of this publication, in a letter which I had the pleasure of receiving from him with a copy of it, he says, "I wish earnestly that this course of Lectures may deserve your esteem and approbation. It is the fruit of very extensive research, and has cost me a great deal of labour. The last eight Lectures will, I hope, present to the public, matter clearly exposed, which, until this moment, has never been rendered accessible to them."

The very perspicuous and instructive manner in which the truths of Geometry are unfolded, and the continually attractive application of these truths to the proceedings of the workshop, an application never before to an equal extent even attempted—must place this treatise in the hands of every inquiring workman, and, on account of the amusing character of its contents, in the hands of the least scientific or practical. It is likewise so completely adapted to the purposes of Mechanics' Institutions, that I trust it will soon become not only the text-book for the elementary schools, but be introduced as the basis of Courses of Lectures, to be regularly delivered by suitable professors upon this fundamental branch of mathematical science. to this pursuit has been added a similar appropriation of the principles of mechanics, the materials for which have already been provided by our distinguished author, we may confidently anticipate all the beneficial results promised by him in one of his animating addresses to the Workmen of France. "If you study," says he, "the application of Geometry and Mechanics to your arts and your implements, you will find in this exercise methods of working with more regularity, precision, intelligence, facility, and rapidity. You will execute your work at once more perfectly and more expeditiously; and you will acquire the power of reasoning accurately, respecting your performances and your inventions." GEORGE BIRKBECK.

ADDRESS.

Few works, perhaps, connected with Botany, treated especially as an elegant amusement, have enjoyed a more extensive or a more deserved share of reputation and popularity than the Botanical Magazine, commenced, and for many so ably conducted, by the late Mr. Curtis.

It was the first work of the kind that had ever been attempted in any country; though it has now met with imitators in many parts of Europe, and even in North America. The great expense, however, of keeping up complete sets of the entire stock of Fifty-three Volumes, and the heavy cost attending the purchase of the whole work to individuals who have not taken it from the commencement, have induced the present proprietor and conductor of the Botanical Magazine, Mr. Samuel Curtis, to resolve upon meeting the wishes of many lovers of Horticulture and Botany, Gardeners, and such as have it not in their power to procure the original edition, and to publish an entirely NEW EDITION of the OLD SERIES, on a more economical, but scarcely less beautiful, and in some respects more useful form.

This new edition will be printed in royal octavo, on fine paper, and the plates will be half coloured. The descriptive part will be confined to what is necessary for the determination of the species, and the whole will be published in systematic order, commencing with the Clematis and Ranunculus Tribe, and following the arrangement of the celebrated De Candolle, as given in his "Prodromus." There will be given at the head of the species, the characters of the Classes, Orders, and Genera. Such remarks will be made upon their uses, and properties and cultivation, derivation of generic names, &c., &c., as the subject may require; and the whole will be written in English. Any figure that may be requisite for the illustration of such Orders as are not given in the Old Series, will be selected from the New; so that the work will be an epitome of all that has been made known to Science, both by figures and descriptions, through the medium of the Botanical Magazine, during a period of forty-five years.

A number, price 1s. (or with the Plates full coloured, price 2s.), will appear twice in every month, containing four Plates accompanied by four pages of closely-printed Letter Press, more or less as the subject may require. A volume of ninety-six Plates will thus appear every year.

The Letterpress will be conducted by Dr. HOOKER, Regius Professor of Botany in the University of Glasgow; with the exception of what regards the cultivation of the species, which will invariably be supplied by Mr. Curtis.

The New Series of the Botanical Magazine will continue to be published regularly on the first day of every month. Seventy-five numbers of this very highly interesting and beautiful work are now before the Public, in which are displayed, most accurately coloured from nature, with full descriptions of their uses, and valuable information as to their products in economical and commercial points of view, the rare and curious Double Cocoa Nut, the Clove, Nutmeg, Black Pepper, Sago, Tapioca, the Bread Fruit Tree, Custard Apple, Butter Nut, Papaw Tree, the Columbo Root, Poison Tanghin, the Cochineal Plant and Insects, &c., &c., with many interesting Plants never before figured in any European work.

This work is elegantly printed in royal 8vo. Each Number, price 3s. 6d., contains eight highly finished coloured Plates, with accurate descriptions. Twelve Numbers form a handsome Volume, and may be had of the Proprietor at Glazenwood; or of Messrs. Sherwood, Gilbert, & Piper, Paternoster Row, and Messrs. Arch's, Cornhill.

Lately published, price 15s. boards.

——GENERAL INDEXES to the FIRST FIFTY-THREE VOLUMES of the BOTANICAL MAGAZINE; consisting of 1st.—A GENERAL ALPHABETICAL ENGLISH INDEX, with the Volume and Number of the Plate prefixed to each Plant; to which the Latin name is added.

2nd.—A GENERAL ALPHABETICAL LATIN INDEX, with the same reference to Volume and Plate; to which the English Names are added, 3rd.—A GENERAL SYSTEMATICAL LATIN INDEX, with the same reference to Volume and Plate; to which the English names are added.

As an additional interest to this appendage of the work, a Portrait, with a Sketch of the Life and Writings of Mr. WILLIAM CURTIS, the original Author of it is added; and at the end of the Index, blank leaves are inserted, for the continuation of the Index in manuscript.

From Eli K. Price's Centennial Meeting of the Descendants of Philip and Rachel Price:—"In 1773 William Dillwyn, then of New Jersey, was one of a deputation of Friends to present a numerously signed petition to the Legislature of that State for the manumission of slaves, and he was heard at the bar of the house. In 1774 he went to England, and made the acquaintance of Granville Sharp, and soon after settled in London, and became a co-laborer with him. He formed a committee of Friends for the suppression of Slavery, before the subject had been thought of by Clarkson. When Clarkson took it up as a University Thesis in 1784, he found all his needed materials in the writings of Benezet.

It is among the pleasing recollections of my visit to England in 1821, that I shared the hospitality of the veteran philanthropist, William Dillwyn, at his beautiful home at Walthamstow, and saw him in the evening of life, of most venerable and benign appearance, surrounded by beloved and loving daughters, with feelings of yet warm and glowing interest in his native country, and of love for mankind."

He died at Walthamstow. the 28th of the 9th Month, 1824, aged 81 years, and was buried in the Friends' Burial Ground, adjoining the Meeting-house, Tottenham.

D'OYLY, Bray, son of John D'Oyly, was born before 1634, and in 1656 succeeded his father in the Manors of Brownes and St. Amonds thence residing in the family mansion at Adderbury.

But Bray D'Oyly was ill qualified to represent a proud and ancient family, for, like his relative Nathaniel Weston, he became a convert to Quakerism; and further, as soon as ever his father was laid in the grave, severed not only himself but his estates of St. Amonds and Brownes from the rest of his family, and suffering a common recovery thereof by indenture of bargain and sale enrolled, dated April, 1657, conveyed a considerable portion to Barnabas Horsman, of Banbury, to such uses as suited his wishes.

Bray D'Oyly was not merely a staunch Quaker, but one of the most persecuted amongst the early members of that sect. He engaged too in the lengthy doctrinal controversy in defence of his new faith with his neighbour, William Fiennes, Lord Saye and Sele: who though himself an extreme Puritan, and a notorious enemy to the Established Church, spared no endeavours to persecute the Quakers. Some of the pamphlets which passed between them are enumerated in Beesley's History of Banbury. Bray D'Oyly's property too being considerable, increased the persecution against him.

In 1661 he was prosecuted in the Hundred Court for non-payment of tithes, and was certainly most arbitrarily and unjustly treated. In 1662 he was heavily fined for attending meetings, as also in 1670 and 1674.

Meanwhile his estates being unfettered, Bray D'Oyly gave the Quakers their Meeting House at Adderbury with land attached, being the building in which they D'OYLY, Bray, continued.

still assemble. He died 5 p.m. in the summer of 1696, and was buried 2nd July, 1696, at Adderbury. He left a Will bequeathing his brother Edmund an annuity (on condition that he would not be troublesome to Anne, the testator's relict), and also a Widow the said Anne, who possessed the said Will in 1701, sharing a pretty jointure settled on her by Bray D'Oyly, married secondly January, 1698, at South Newington. John Toovey, of Henley-on-Thames, doubtlessly a Quaker but of a respectable family in Bucks and Oxfordshire, which was entitled to bear for arms, "Per fesse on and gules a wivern," with wings elevated, countercharged. On Bray D'Oyly's decease his Quakeress nieces succeeded to Brown and St. Amonds, but the male representation of the family devolved on his brother.

Note.—The above account is extracted from the work, "A Biog. Hist., &c., of the House of D'Oyly," 1845.

The Registry says, "Bray D'Oyly was buried at Adderbury the 2nd of 7th Month (September), 1696. His age is not given.

Deed of Adderbury Ground dated 15th April, 1677, for £20, from Bray D'Oyly, Esq., and Anne his wife, to Edward Vivers, of Banbury, woollen draper, and others.

Vivers, of Banbury, woollen draper, and others.

The deed mentions John D'Oyly, Esq., deceased, as late father of the said Bray.

Names signed Doiley.

The house in which Bray Doyley lived is atill standing at Adderbury, near the Friends' Meeting House. Some large yew trees overhanging the outer wall of the ground in front must have been standing when B.D. lived there.

FABER, Albertus Otto. The following particulars respecting Albertus Otto Faber are given from the "Calendar of State Papers," mentioned in the "Catalogue," Vol. 1, p. 583, which I thought would be interesting to many Friends and others, during his imprisonment in

Oxford Castle, viz:—

April 11, 1667, Oxford.—[Alb. Otto] Faber to Williamson. Thanks for favours to his wife; entreats influence for delivery from his present purgatory and misery. [French.]

April 23, 1667, Oxford.—Dr. A. O. F, to Williamson. Will give the reasons why at the Oxford Assizes he was not released, as were the others detained on the same business; they were kept 20 weeks in prison, to be tried for the firing of Banbury; but at the trial, Judge Twysden enquired if he had not been before Council, and given recognizance to depart the land; said he had not, on which the judge said the matter should be referred to Lord Arlington, and sent him back to gaol. The judge spoke of him to Lord Lovelace, as a fortune-teller and mountebank, of whom the land should be rid. Hen. Stokes and others of Banbury tried to get the other three released, and the writer only detained, on pretence of orders from high quarters; the gaoler also, to increase his livelihood, complains of ill-conduct in his prisoners. The Calendar orders his detention, without bail, as a dangerous person, to abide the course of law. Begs favour for his deliverance; would think it folly to stay in the country contrary to the King's wishes. The society of debauched persons amongst whom he lives doubles the pain of his imprisonment. [Freuch, 2 pages.]

April 30, 1667, Oxford. 109. Albertus Otto Faber to the King.—Since His Majesty sent for him to England, presented his discourses "De Magnetismo Vasorum maris" to him; being prevented by winter from returning to his Country, fell in with the people called Quakers, and mingled with them to penetrate into their profession, when three years ago he was taken prisoner at one of their meetings. Has always been supposed a Quaker since, although the Court of the Bishop of London has certified his attendance at the French Church. Assures His Majesty of the continuance of his devotion. Has never entertained a thought to his prejudice nor that of his government. Entreats the protection promised to him as a stranger at his first interview, and restoration to liberty. [French. 2 pages.]

to liberty. [French, 2 pages.]
78. Warham Jemmet, Jun., to Williamson.—The Flanders mails were detained by bad weather. One went thence this morning, having on board Albertus Otto Faber, who had His Majesty's pass for his transportation. Annexing 78. I. Memorandum by Theophilus Wimple, master of a packet boat, that he has received from John Sumner, messenger, the person of Albertus Otto Faber, to convey him to Flanders. With note that he was put on board the boat on the 22nd instant. August 21, 1667.

33. Albertus Otto Faber to [Lord Arlington].—Is a Stranger, and has no friend but his wife, also a stranger, and being left behind by the judge in arrest, begs his lordship to pardon this mode of presenting his requests to the King and himself, and to favour them. [French.] Encloses.

33. I.—Petition of Albertus Otto Faber to Lord Arlington, to dismiss him in a gracious way, being a stranger in doleful condition; after long detention, a pass was ordered for his departure, but the plague, and then the fire which destroyed his house, prevented; has behaved guiltlessly since, but having given in a petition for his departure, went meanwhile to Banbury to settle his affairs, was apprehended, sent to the common gaol, and on the assizes was referred to his lordship. Oxford Castle, March 29, 1667.

- 33. II.—Petition of Albertus Otto Faber to the King, to receive him into favour, according to his proclamation in behalf of foreigners that live peaceably, and graciously to accept his sufferings, having been under restraint on mere suspicion, and nothing laid to his charge. Oxford Castle, March 29, 1667.
- Whitehall, August, 2, 1667.—Order in Council,—on petition of Albertus Otto Faber, for release from his three years' imprisonment in Oxford Castle, as nothing has been proved against him—renewing the order of May 7 for his removal, and ordering that he be delivered to John Sumner, messenger, and brought before Lord Arlington. FOLGER, Peter, was the grandfather, on the maternal side, of Dr. Benjamin Franklin; his mother was Abiah Folger, daughter of Peter Folger, one of the first colonists of New England. Peter Folger was invited to remove with his family to Nantucket, to officiate as miller, weaver, and interpreter of the Indian language; his son Eleazer was to act as shoemaker; and, as a proper encouragement to these several occupations, a grant of one-half of a share of land, with all the accommodations thereunto belonging, was made to the father. He accepted the invitation, and, in 1663, removed thither."

Nantucket," p. 287.

FOLGER, Peleg, of Nantucket, "was a Member and Elder of the Society of Friends. In early life he exhibited traits of character, which gave him a great superiority over others of his age. His literary acquirements were the result of his own unaided industry, for his school education was very limited, his youth being principally employed in the farming business. about the age of 21 he began the business of a seaman, which he followed many years, both in whaling and cod fishing. In addition to keeping the run of the vessel, like an experienced navigator, he frequently introduced in his journals pieces of poetry and compositions in prose, and occasionally sentences in Latin, besides arithmetical and algebraical problems. His general deportment was serious and contemplative. It was rare that he indulged in levity, but he was free and sociable in conversation on useful subjects, whether moral or religious. He was considered as a monitor in all his conduct through life; beloved by all good people, he commanded the respect and obedience of those who looked to him for support and protection, among whom were several fatherless children. His knowledge of Mathematics and of the Natural Sciences generally, was considered by judges to be far superior to many who had had the advantages of a classical education. His character as a Christian, from his youth to the time of his decease, was almost without blemish. For several days previous to his departure he appeared to have a satisfactory presentiment of his approaching end, and that the sting of death was entirely removed. He had much to say by way of advice to his friends and neighbours, who visited him in his last moments. FOSTER, Thomas, of Bromley, Middlesex, from Catalogue, Vol. 1, p. 626.

NOTE.—Concerning him. "This was Mr. Thomas Foster. for more than 50 years a respected member of the Society of Friends, in which he was born and educated. He was led early in life, by reading William Penn's Works, to embrace Unitarianism. Through the medium of Mr. William Rathbone, also a member of the Society of Friends, he became a subscriber to the London Unitarian Book Society. In the autumn of 1810, he printed in the Monthly Repository some remarks on the Yearly Meeting Epistle, which were afterwards distributed amongst the Friends. This circumstance led to proceedings being taken against him by the Society, and eventually he was disowned. He defended himself in "A Narrative of the Proceedings of the Society called Quakers, within the Quarterly Meeting of London and Middlesex, against Thomas Foster, for openly professing their Primitive Doctrines concerning the Unity of God, 1813." He was a man possessed with a simple and earnest love of truth, with a sound head and a truly warm heart. Mr. Aspland had the greatest esteem for him. He continued till 1818 to reside at Bromley Hall, where his friends were ever welcome, and where the most agreeable society, both in and out of the circle of the Friends, was constantly found. He then removed to Evesham, where he resided about 10 years. He died at Rushwick, near Worcester, July 9, 1834, in the 75th year of his age."

Sir Robert Fowler was the son of Thomas Fowler of r Kobert Fowler was the son of Thomas Fowler London, banker, and was born at Tottenham on the 12th of the 9th Month, 1828. Educated at Grove House school, Tottenham, and at University College, London; he graduated B.A. (Lond.) in 1848, being second in mathematics and fifth in classics, and obtained his M.A. degree in 1850. Sir Robert's career may be said to have been of a two-fold character—civic and Parliamentary. His mayoralty (1883-4) is memorable from the fact that the Court of Aldermen deliberately passed over the alderman next on the rota selected by the Livery. Amongst the many important functions in which Lord Mayor Fowler took part were the openings of the Inner Circle Railway and the International Health Exhibition. Five months only had passed after his retirement, when by the sudden death of his successor -Lord Mayor Nottage—the civic chair became vacant. At the unanimous wish of the Livery Sir Robert resumed the duties and responsibilities of the office for the remainder of the year. For this her Majesty bestowed upon Sir Robert a baronetcy.

*FRY, Edmund M.D., The Type Founder.—Continued from Catalogue, vol. 1. p. 819.

This gentleman was one of the Society of Friends. He was originally bred to the medical profession; but was more generally known as an eminent, and perhaps the most learned, type-founder of his time. His foundery was in Type-street, Chiswell-street. The substructure of the establishment (as we learn from a circular issued by Dr. Fry, in 1828, on his making known his wish to retire from business), was laid about 1764; commencing with improved imitations of Baskerville's founts, in all sizes; but they did not meet with encouragement from the printers, whose offices were generally stored with the Caslon founts, formed after the Dutch models. Dr. Fry, therefore, commenced his imitation of the Chiswell-street Foundery, established by the celebrated Wm. Caslon; which he completed at a vast expense, and with very satisfactory encouragement. But at this period, what the Doctor calls "a rude, pernicious, and most unclassical innovating system" was commenced, by the introduction of various fanciful letters. His imitations of the Baskerville and Caslon types were, in consequence of this revolution, laid by for ever; but no instance occurred to the attentive observation of Dr. Fry, where any founts of book letter, on the present system, have been found equal in service, or nearly so agreeable to the reader, as the true Cuslon-shaped Elziver types; and in this sentiment we coincide with Dr. Fry. As the life of Dr. Fry is interesting to the public only as connected with his business, we venture to copy the remainder of the advertisement above alluded to, for the benefit of some future historian of the annals of the Type Foundery:—

"When that eminent printer, the late William Bowyer, gave instruction to Joseph Jackson to cut his beautiful Pica Greek, he used to say, 'Those in common use, were no more Greek, than they were English.' Were he now living, its likely that he would not have any reason to alter that opinion.

"The Greeks of this Foundery were many of them made in Type-street, copied from those of the celebrated Foulis of Glasgow; and there are two, a Pica and a Long Primer, on the Porsonian plan. The Codex Alexandrinus was purchased at James's sale, in 1782.

"The Hebrews were also chiefly cut by Dr. Fry, subject to the direction and approbation of the most learned Hebraists.

"The two Arabics, Great Primer and English, were cut from the original drawings of, and under the personal direction of Dr. Wilkins, Oriental Librarian to the East India Company; and have no rival, either in beauty or correctness.

"The Syriac has been made within the last two years (1828), with all its vowel-points, reduced to an English body, from the Double Pica of the eminent Assemann's edition of Ludolph's Testament.

"The English, No. 1, and Pica Ethiopics—the Pica and Long Primer Samaritans, were purchased at James's sale. The other Orientals, viz. two Malabarics—the Amharic—Ethiopic, No. 3, and Guzerattee, were all cut at this Foundery. As was the fine collection of Blacks, or pointed Gothics, except the English, No. 1,—Pica, No. 2, Long Primer, No. 1,—and Brevier, which were collected by the late John James. There is good authority for believing that this Pica Black, No. 2, was once the property of William Caxton; Dr. Fry having recut for a reprint of a work published by that celebrated man, all the contractions and accented letters exhibited in the specimen-book.

"The Occidentals, as termed by Moxon, Mores, and others, viz. the Saxons, Hibernians, German, and Russian, were also produced at this Foundery. As were the two Plein Chants, and the Psalm Music.

"The Great Primer Script, which, it must be acknowledged, is the ne plus ultra of every effort of the letter founder in imitation of writing, was made for the proprietor by the celebrated Firmin Didot at Paris; the matrices are of steel, and the impressions from the punches sunk in inlaid silver!"

inlaid silver!" We regret to learn that Dr. Fry retired from business with a very slender provision. He was an old member of the Company of Stationers. In 1799 he published a work (in strict connexion with his profession), "Pantographia: containing copies of all the known alphabets in the world, together with an English explanation of the peculiar form of each letter; to which are added, specimens of all well-authenticated oral languages, forming a comprehensive Digest of Phonology," 8vo. This work contains 200 alphabets, amongst which are 18 varieties of the Chaldee, and no less than 32 of the Greek. (See Gent. Mag. 1799, pp. 137, 879.) Gent. Mag., May, 1836. He died at Dalby Terrace, City Road, London, the 22nd of 12th month, 1835, aged about 79 years, and was buried on 27th of the same month, in Friends' Burial ground, Bunhill Fields.

Acrs, chap. xix., ver. 13, 14, 15, 16. "Then certain of the vagabond Jews, Exorcists, took upon them to call over them which had Evil spirits, in the Name of the LORD JESUS, saying, We adjure you by JESUS whom Paul preacheth.

And there were seven Sons of one Sceva a Jew, and Chief of the Priests, which did so.

And the Evil Spirit answered and said, JESUS I know, and Paul I know; but who are ye? And the Man in whom the Evil Spirit was leapt on them, and overcame them, and prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded.

"Last Sunday, the 22nd of 4th mo., 1770, died in the 55th year of his age, Mr. John Gurney, one of the people called Quakers. He was the largest dealer in Irish Worsted in the Kingdom, and by his upright conduct joined to great capacity was equally useful to the trade of this City; as he lived with the utmost credit, his decayable largest death is decayable. death is deservedly lamented, and his memory will ever be held dear by his family, to whom he approved himself a most tender husband, a kind father, and indulgent Benefactor: in every degree he merited the affection demonstrated, through a tedious and painful illness, which he endured with true Christian fortitude, having left them the consolation that his death was, as his life, an example worthy of imitation."-Norwich Mercury.

- ——Essay on the characters of William Ellery Channing. By Rowland G. Hazard.
- HEATH, Noble (the son of George Heath, the son of Topp Heath, owner of Landed Estates near Hexham) was born May 16th, 1796, in the village of Stella, (So. bank of R. Tyne) County of Durham, England, was educated principally in Newcastle-on-Tyne. When nearly 14 years old, being in delicate health, was sent to sea, made several voyages in the West Indies and gained a robust constitution, since which has been a remarkably healthy man.

The war of 1812 prevented his returning to England—he being then in the State of Maine, U.S. -and he was variously employed in that State for several years. Here he became a Member of Friends' Society, and warmly attached to many worthy Friends, who were very kind to him. He has ever since remained a devoted Friend. It was in Maine that he first became a Teacher, and he afterwards taught in New York City (in the Senior department of the New York High School; in the School of the Brothers Peugnet, friends of Lafayette; in that of R. T. Huddart, &c.), where he assisted in the education of many who are now Merchant Princes of New York, Bank Presidents, Cashiers, &c., &c. After this he taught in the School of A. Bolmar, at West Chester, in Pennsylvania, and was a Professor in Girard College, Philadelphia.

Returning to New York in 1858, he had a Private School at Hastings-upon-Hudson, where one of his pupils was the son of Capt. now Admiral Farragut.

His services as a Teacher extend (at times and in various places) over an interval of half a century, and he is now affectionately remembered by many an eminent man.

As an Author, he first translated (from the French) the Arithmetic of Bezout, which he published by the Harper's in 1825.

At the request of Mr. Griscom, and his associate, Mr. Barnes, he prepared in 1827 "a treatise on Arithmetic," for the use of the High School. But his principal work was a much larger and more complete Arithmetic, which was published in 1856 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. This work received the highest encomiums of the Provost and Professors of the University of Pennsylvania. About a year later he published "The People's Spelling Book," containing important strictures and rules on Pronunciation, together with a universal system of English Syllabication."

But although these works were admired by all who read them, they have never become popular School books

In the intervals of time between his engagements as Teacher, he followed a variety of occupations. Was at one time Assistant Engineer on the Erie Canal, at another time he was in the Tanning Business. At another was a Manufacturer. He is now a Farmer, living on a little place on Long Island, near New York, healthy and vigorous at 74.

He was married 30th June, 1826, to Hannah Hardy, and has now living three children (and fourteen grand-children, of whom he is very fond). He has always been known as a hard student, and independent and affectionate man.

He speaks seven languages and is certainly one of the greatest Mathematicians living, as well as a man of excellent literary taste.

> Yours very Cordially, NOBLE HEATH, Jr.

*HEWES, Joseph, one of the Signers of the American Declaration of Independence, 1776, was a native of New Jersey, and graduated at Princeton College. He became a Merchant, and when about thirty years of age removed to North Carolina. In 1774 he was sent as a delegate to Congress, and continued to be a Member till his death, 1779, aged 50. His parents were Quakers, and he had always been considered as belonging to the Sect, but when the Quakers held a general convention in 1778 of the Members of their sect residing in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and put forth a "Testimony," denouncing the Congress, and all its proceedings, he broke off all communion with them.

SON, John, a Mathematician, of Warrington, in Lancashire, died 27th of 9th Mo., 1875, aged 81 years. See "The Annual Monitor," 1877, p. 69, where may be found the following account of him.

"John Jackson was known in the past generation as a mathematician, when Warrington had become famous for its Academy and a considerable succession of literati, commencing with Dr. Aikin and his family, especially his daughters, Lucy Aikin and Anna Letitia Barbauld. Dr. Kendrick of that town, in a small tractate, issued in 1853, accompanied with profiles of the 'Warrington Worthies,' has the following notice of our departed friend:—"John Jackson, born at Crosedale Beck, Yorkshire, December 4th, 1793; a much respected member of the Society of Friends; author of "Puzzles and Paradoxes relating to arithmetic, geometry, geography, &c., with their solutions," and a frequent contributor on these subjects to the "Gentlemen's and Ladies' Diary," where his solutions of many abstruse calculations have shewn him to be a clever mathematician.

"John Jackson opened a school at Warrington in 1821, which he conducted for about 30 years, when he retired to a life of quiet repose with the affectionate regard and esteem of his many pupils and friends. He used to say with an innocent pleasantry, speaking both figuratively and literally, that he had long 'sat under his own vine and his own fig tree,' specimens of both being cultivated in the garden attached to his house in Academy Place.

"The Warrington Advertiser, in announcing the close of his long life, speaks of him as 'kindly hearted, simple minded, and guileless.' His remains were interred in the Friends' Burial Ground at Penketh."

"Mrs. Mary Knott.—This lady is the daughter of the late Richard Abell, of Cork, and descended of an old and respectable mercantile family in that city. She was born about the year 1784, and married, several years since, Mr. John Knott, of Dublin, in which city she has continued to reside. In 1836 she published "Two Months at Kilkee," the result of a visit paid to that neighbourhood, in search of health, in the previous year. This work bears the impress of kindly feeling, and of a mind deeply devoted to the improvement and amelioration of the condition of the humbler classes. It displays careful observation, and is written in a style, clear, natural, and unaffected."

MARRIAGE, Francis, continued from Catalogue, Vol. 2, p. 141.

He died the 12th day of the 2nd Mo., 1878, aged 68 years. DEATH OF MR. FRANCIS MARRIAGE.—This week we have to record the death of a venerable, though somewhat eccentric philanthropist—formerly well-known as what may be called "a character" in Chelmsford, and afterwards in the metropolis—which took place at Blackmore on Tuesday last. The deceased was Mr. Francis Marriage, a member of a family of the Society of Friends which for two or more generations has occupied, and still retains, a good and honourable position in this neighbourhood. He was the second son of Mr. Joseph Marriage, of Bishops Hall Mill; and for some time he carried on the business of a miller and merchant in this town and at Springfield Wharf. But it is less in a commercial than in an intellectual and philanthropic view that his memory is entitled to notice. With a large and liberal mind he united the qualities of the ripe scholar and linguist, and his knowledge of languages often brought him into contact with foreigners, whom he was ever ready to counsel and assist. In the cause of education he always took a deep interest, and was the means of erecting several Schools in the county: and he may be said to have been the father of the Temperance Societies in this district, having expended considerable time and money on the advancement of those principles. His principal eccentricity was the adoption of the garb of his sect in the 17th century; but from familiarity with his pleasant and portly form, this did not attract peculiar notice in Chelmsford, though in the Metropolis, to which he removed to take a place of trust, it made him conspicuous in the Law Courts and occasionally in the House of Commons, to which his interest in public matters often led him. About twelve months ago, becoming somewhat feeble from age, he returned to Essex, and had resided at Blackmore, where he died at the age of 68. A short time before this sad event he was walking from Ongar to his home, when he was assailed by three roughs, who threw him down and robbed him of his watch. This, possibly, in his feeble state, might have accelerated his death—if so, it was a sad end for a man of his cultivated mind and gentle spirit.

FUNERAL OF MR. FRANCIS MARRIAGE.—The remains of Mr. Francis Marriage, whose death at Blackmore, at the age of 68, we noticed in our last, were on Saturday afternoon consigned to their last resting-place in the Friends' Cemetery, Broomfield Road, Chelmsford, in the presence of a large concourse of mourners from various parts, who had assembled to pay this last tribute of respect to the memory of a man of whom it may truly be said that to know him was to respect and love him. The sad procession reached the Cemetery at about three o'clock, the chief mourner being deceased's only surviving brother-Mr. Joseph Marriage, of Holloway, in the carriage with whom were Mr. Manning, of Cornhill, an old friend of deceased, and the Rev. Mr. Warley, of Blackmore; while in another conveyance were three female neighbours of deceased who had been most kind to him in his last illness. At Roxwell the procession had been joined by Mr. Wm. Bott's carriage, in which were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bott; Mr. and Mrs. E. Marriage, of Colchester; Mr. Chas. Marriage, of Reigate; and Mr. Thos. Marriage, of Chelmsford, all cousins of deccased. At the gate of the Cemetery the procession was met by a deputation of the elder members of the Chelmsford Temperance Society, which was founded at a meeting held at deceased's house at Chelmsford in 1837; while among the relatives of the deceased present near the graveside the relatives of the deceased present near the graveside were Mr. Henry Marriage, Mr. Lawrance Marriage, Mr. Joseph Smith, of Saling; Mr. Chas. Hicks, of Stansted; Mr. Burgess, of Leicester; Mr. Jno. Marriage, of Moulsham Lodge; Mr. F. Marriage, of Barnes Farm, Springfield; Mrs. Henry Marriage, of Coval Hall; Miss Caroline Marriage, &c. The service at the grave was conducted in the usual simple manner of the Society of Friends, Mr. H. S. Corder, of Writtle, offering prayer, after which Mr. Chas. Hicks delivered an address. In addition to the relatives and friends, a goodly number of residents in the neighbourhood-by whom deceased was formerly known-were present in the graveyard to show their respect for the memory of an old and honoured friend, who, with not a few harmless eccentricities, was one of the kindest, most upright, and most loveable of men. EXTRACTS FROM RECORDS OF LEWES MONTHLY MEETING. (CONCERNING THOMAS CLIO RICKMAN.)

1779

11 mo. 14. Thomas Rickman, Senior, presented to us a certificate on behalf of Thomas Rickman, Doctor, being removed from the Monthly Meeting of Reading in Barkshire, to reside within the compass of this Monthly Meeting to the following import:

To Friends of Lewes Monthly Meeting in Sussex.

Thomas Rickman being, by mutual consent, discharged from his apprenticeship and removed to Lewes.

We certifie that during his residence within the compass of this meeting he was in general of a sober, morral conduct, constant attender of meetings, both on the First-day and week-day, and we would hope under no engagement relative to marriage. Desiering he may happily experience a growth and establishment in the blessed Truth, we commend him to your Christian care and tender regard, and conclude with the salutation of unfeigned love.

Your Friends and Brethren.

(Signed by Friends of Reading Monthly Meeting.)

(A"Thomas Rickman, Junior," appears both before and after this date to have been present at the Monthly Meeting for Lewes, also after the discomment, so that he must have been another of the same name.)

1780.

12 mo. 10. From the various reports spread remote respecting the conduct of Thomas Rickman, late apprentice in Barkshire, and recommended to us by certificate, we appoint the following Friends . . . to querie with him on the subject of missconduct, and make their report, that if clear of the charge, his conduct may be vindicated.

1781.

1 mo. 14. (The Minute was continued, the Friends not having reported.)

1781

2 mo. 11. The Friends appointed to visit Thomas Rickman, late of Barkshire, report they had visited him, and that he received their advice corderly [cordially?] and with some degree of tenderness, and this Meeting desiers their watchful care in future over him for good.

1781.

5 mo. 13. (The report of the Friends not being satisfactory)
"the case is continued with desiers he may be brought to a true sence of making to free with the reputation of others."

1781.

9 mo. 9. (From report made the meeting) "concludes to close the minute With a fervent wish he may be very careful of the like attempt respecting the reputation of others, But look well to his own future conduct."

1783.

4 mo. 13. This meeting having reason to apprehend that Thos. Rickman, late of Barkshire, has an intention of marriage with a person not of our Society, we appoint John Ticehurst and William Tupper to advise him against any proceeding of this nature by the request of this meeting the first convenient time that should offer.

1783.

5 mo. 11. Wm. Tupper reports that John Ticehurst nor himself hath not had any opportunity to visit Thos. Rickman, late of Barkshire, and since that time they were appointed he appears to be married by the Priest to a person not of our profession, we now appoint the following Friends to visit him on that subject and other missconduct [names follow, John Ticehurst desiring to be excused from the appointment].

1783.

6 mo. 18. (By adjournment.) Wm. Tupper and Thos. Cruttenden report they had fixed a time to visit Thos. Rickman, late of Barkshire, but was refused by a letter from him to them signifying he was not prepared to receive their visit, their further care respecting the affaire is requested of them.

1783.

8 mo. 10. (Report was made that he declined giving the Friends any opportunity to visit him as "yett.")

1783.

9 mo. 14. (The meeting received a report from the Friends that visited him and "there appearing from him no satisfaction to them nor to this meeting") some Friends were appointed "to draw up a Testimony against the next meeting."

1783.

10 mo. 12. (One of the Friends presented the document) " on which after reading we desier it may be produced at our next sitting with some little alteration."

1783.

11 mo. 9. Thos. Martin presented a Testimony of Denial against Thos. Rickman, late of Barkshire, which he is desiered to deliver to him and make report thereof.

The Proceedings and Testimony of Lewes Monthly Meeting held the 9th of 11th mo., 1783, against Thos. Rickman, late of Barkshire, a member of Reading Monthly Meeting. Removed to reside within the compass of this by certificate of Recommendation. Having been visited by request of this meeting for some misconduct Inconsistent to our principles. Since that is married contrary to the Rules of our Discipline and the frequent absenting from our religious meetings for worship, also other missbehaviour Inconsistant to our Religious profession, for which he hath been Revisited by order of this meeting, but has given us no satisfaction for his disorderly conduct. We do therefore declear our disapprobation of the said Thomas Rickman and signify we cannot account a person who acts so inconsistant with the principles of our religious society to be any longer a member thereof. Notwithstanding we affectionately wish that by becoming truly senciable of his errors may be rendered fit for reception into unity with us again.

1783.
12 mo. 7. Thomas Martin informs us of Delivering the Testimony of Denial to Thomas Rickman, late of Barkshire, and was cordially received, and Thomas Rickman, Senr., is Desiered to send a coppy of this meeting's proceedings to the Monthly Meeting of Reading, of which he was a Member.

1784.

2 mo. 8. Thomas Rickman reports that he hath sent a copy of his nephew's, Thomas Rickman's, disownment to the Monthly Meeting of Reading, in Barkshire.

RITSON, Isaac, Son of Isaac Ritson, of Eamont Bridge, Cumberland, was born in 1761. Though decreptd and lame,—of all the departed geniuses in this County, there are few more worthy of commemoration. After having been for some time under the tuition of Mr. Blain, a respectable teacher in the neighbourhood, he was removed to a Quaker's School at Kendal, his Parents being of that persuasion. His progress in learning was very great; at nine years of age he had made no ordinary proficiency in the Greek language. From Kendal he was sent to study Mathematics under Mr. John Slee, of How-Hill, in Mungrisdale, an excellent Mathematician. This hitherto unnoticed Village Sage, with his pupil and many others in these neglected spots, like some wild flower, might be said to -" bloom unseen, " And waste their fragrance on the desert air." So clear and acute were Ritson's ideas, that he understood the propositions of the first six books of Euclid almost as soon as he read them. At the early age of sixteen he commenced teacher in Carlisle, but two years afterwards he resigned his School, and made a tour through the Highlands of Scotland with only a few shillings in his pocket; but such was the kindness he experienced in Caledonia, that on his return, in about twelve months, he made a pretty respectable appearance, being well clothed, and no longer the humble pedestrian, but mounted on a pony. now opened a School at Penrith, which his restless disposition would not permit him long to retain. He went back to Scotland, and studied medicine at Edinburgh for two years, supporting himself, in the meanwhile, by writing theses for the students. At Edinburgh, Ritson formed an intimacy with the celebrated Dr. Brown; a remarkable semblance in character was perhaps the foundation of this friendship. He next proceeded to London, where he subsisted upon the products of his literary labour. here published a translation of Homer's Hymns to Venus, and for some time wrote the medical articles in the Monthly Review. His Preface to Clark's Survey of the Lakes exhibits much learning and genius. Isaac Ritson died in an obscure lodging at Islington, aged only 27. Unfortunately, numerous MSS. he left behind could never be found."

IUBBE, Henry,

was the Son of a minister (Church of England), and born at Partney, near Spilsbye, in Lincolnshire, on the 28th of February, 1631, and at ten years of age sent to Westminster School under the care of Dr. Richard Busby, where by the interest of Sir Henry Vane, junr., he became one of the King's Scholars, and in 1649 was elected student of Christ Church in In July, 1653, he took the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and then went to Scotland, where he served in the Army till 1655; and in December, 1656, took the degree of Master of Arts. In the beginning of the year following he was appointed second library-keeper of the Bodleian library under Dr. Thos. Barlow, which post he held till the year 1659, when he was removed from it, as well as from his place of student of Christ Church, having the same year published a Vindication of his patron Sir Henry Vane, An Essay on the good old Cause, and a piece entitled, Light shining out of Darkness, with an Apology for the Quakers, in which he reflected upon the Clergy and the Universities. He retired then to Stratford upon Avon in order to practise physic there, and after the Restoration joined himself to the Church of England, not only, says he in the dedication to bishop Morley of his translation of Casa's Arts of Grandeur and Submission, upon account of its being publicly imposed, (which in things indifferent is no small consideration, as I learned from the Scottish Transactions at Perth,) but because it is the least defining, and consequently the most comprehensive and fitting to be national. In 1661 he went to Jamaica, being honoured with the title of his Majesty's physician for that island; but that climate not agreeing with his constitution, he returned to England, and at last settled in Warwick, where he gained very considerable practice, as likewise at the Bath, which he frequented in the summer-season; but was unfortunately drowned in a river about two miles from that city in a journey to Bristol on the 12th of July, 1676, and was interred in the great church at Bath, his old antagonist, Mr. Glanvill, preaching his funeral sermon. Thrist Rejected. CATALOGUE OF THE PICTURE representing the above subject; together with sketches of other scriptural subjects; painted by BENJAMIN WEST, Esq., President of the Royal Academy, and Historical Painter to the King, now exhibiting, under the special Protection of H.R.H. THE PRINCE REGENT, at the Room, formerly the Royal Academy, No. 125, PALL MALL, opposite Market Lane.

West's Picture of the Annunciation.—Sale Extra- ordinary.—Yesterday the transparent picture of the Annunciation, painted by the late Benjamin West for the Rectory Church of St. Marylebone, was brought to the hammer by Mr. Graves, of Mortimer-street, under the orders of the present vestry. The old select vestry voted for this picture the exorbitant sum of £800. It occupied a large space in the centre of the organ of Marylebone New Church; but in the year 1826, it was removed, and has since, for fourteen years, been lying useless in a lumber room at the Marylebone Court-house until directed to be sold. The auctioneer read the fol- lowing extract from the vestry minutes of St. Maryle- bone, in reference to the picture, dated February the 15th, 1817:—"I have always regulated my charge for historical paintings, and under these regulations I charge the parish £800 for the picture now in the New Church of St. Marylebone. Were I a man of Independent fortune, I would request the Vestry to honour me by accepting this picture as a gratuitous mark of my profound respect for the parish. (Signed). BENJAMIN WEST. Newman-street, February 1817."—"Whereupon it was moved and seconded that £800 be paid to Mr. WEST. An amendment thereunto having been moved and seconded, that a committee be appointed to obtain the opinion of three academicians of the value of the transparency painted by Mr. WEST, and to get any other opinion they may think necessary, there appeared to be 12 in favour of the amendment, and 36 against it. The original question was then put by the chairman, and there appearing to be 30 in favour thereof and 10 against the same, it passed in the affirmative." After reading this document, the auctioneer proceeded to expatiate on the merits of the picture and the fame of the artist by whom it was painted in glowing terms. A considerable period elapsed ere a bidding could be got at all. At length, however, the sum of 10 guineas was offered; and, notwithstanding the auctioneer promised the receipt, with the autograph of the late BENJAMIN WEST, should be given to the purchaser, not a bidding could be obtained above the first sum offered. The purchaser of the picture is Mr. John Wilson, of Charles-street, Middlesex Hospital.—Morning Chronicle, 30th April, 1840.

*YEWDALL, Zechariah, was born the 8th of 9th Month (Nov.), 1751, near Eccleshall, in the parish of Bradford. West Riding of Yorkshire. His parents belonged to the Society of Friends, and their children, eleven in all, attended meetings till grown up to maturity. But one of the chief speakers dying, the meetings from that were generally silent, and they being giddy, thoughtless creatures, were disgusted, and one after another forsook the Quakers' Meeting, which was a great affliction to his father. When about six years old the Spirit of the Lord mercifully strove with him, and at last he joined the Methodists.
